RE: Media Narrative around Deportation Efforts and ICE is NOT Backed by Voters

Executive Summary

Democrats are living on a different planet when it comes to the issue of deportation and ICE's enforcement of federal laws to remove those here illegally. Most voters are on one side of the issue, and Democrats are taking a drastically opposition position on every aspect of the issue.

A huge majority of voters strongly believe people who came into the country without permission broke the law doing so, proving the term "illegal" is how Americans term the topic. They support deporting them back to their countries of origin. And...a majority supports ICE enforcing federal immigration laws and removing those here illegally. The mainstream Democrat position to defund ICE is strongly opposed by most.

The media narrative around the topic of deportation and ICE reflect the Democratic view of the issue in opposition to a large majority of Americans. Maybe that's why a Center for Public Integrity analysis of campaign finance data in 2016 found 97% of journalist donations go to Democrats.

This push against deportation from the Left is proven in the polling to cost Democrats electorally in the midterms if Republican say strong on this "rule of law" issue.

Key Numbers

- 73% say entering the U.S. without legal permission is breaking the law.
- Voters support deporting those here illegally by 2:1 (61 - 34).
- 54% support ICE enforcing federal immigration laws to remove illegal immigrants.
- 58% oppose defunding ICE.

Democrats' position on defunding ICE and a potential shutdown over the issue is electorally devastating.

Republicans have a slight deficit on the generic ballot though a positive position with swing voters. Voters responded negatively to Democrats' efforts around ICE in Congress by saying they'll punish them at the ballot box. This proves the strong contrast opportunity for Republicans on the issue of deportation, showing it's electorally beneficial to lean into the issue.

All midterm voters move 6 points away from Democrats on the issue, handing the GOP a lead. Swing voters shift 16-point further in the direction of Republicans.
