AMERICA'S RISING REPUBLICAN OPERATIVES

2023

HONOREE BOOKLET

“We are so proud to announce the inaugural 30 Under Thirty list, spotlighting America’s Rising Republican Operatives. We have been blown away by the response, but more importantly the quality of nominations. It was an extremely difficult list to curate, and those featured within it have truly distinguished themselves. The future is very bright, filled with talented, exceptional individuals, and we eagerly anticipate an incredible journey for each ARRO honoree.”

Chris Lane, Pollster and Director of Client Strategy at Cygnal and Founder of ARRO

Brent Buchanan, President and Founder of Cygnal

"You are an incredibly impressive bunch of young Republican leaders who are already achieving beyond their age. Cygnal created 30 Under Thirty to provide unique opportunities for you to have an instant network of political standouts as you navigate the many chapters that lay before you for the rest of your careers. As this year's inaugural honorees, you are exceptional - your drive and passion for politics and policy, as well as the determination to make a difference in your respective professions will continue to set you apart - and we hope 30 Under Thirty will be a facilitator for your future success. We are excited to continue to see you excel as the next generation of conservative leaders and congratulate you on this honor."

Evan Albertson

Senior Director, FPI Strategies

Texas

Evan Albertson has worked on tough races in over a dozen states. In 2016, he ran the top field office for U.S. Senator Rob Portman's reelection campaign. Albertson then served as the deputy national field director for the Congressional Leadership Fund during the 2018 midterms, where he helped launch and oversee a national field program that made 35 million voter contacts. When Texas Congressman Michael McCaul was listed as one of the top targets of the 2020 cycle, Albertson retooled the political operation and managed one of the most sophisticated congressional campaigns in the country. After that election, he remained a close advisor to Congressman McCaul while also taking a lead role in Texas Congressman Tony Gonzales' campaign. In a majority Hispanic district encompassing more of the U.S.-Mexico border than any other district, Albertson helped Congressman Gonzales achieve a 17-point victory while flipping multiple counties across South Texas that had not gone Republican in decades.

Paul Amarone

Advocacy Outreach Manager, Connecticut Business & Industry Association

Connecticut

A seasoned operative who's managed campaigns at the local, state, and federal level, Paul Amarone has worked in Connecticut, New Hampshire, and Georgia. Amarone got his start with Mayor Erin Stewart of New Britain, CT, where he worked in her office and as statewide field director for her 2018 lieutenant governor run, and later as campaign manager for her re-election campaign in 2019, winning more than 60% of the vote in a city where Republicans are outnumbered by Democrats 6:1. Amarone went on to manage a special election campaign for state senate candidate Gennaro Bizzarro, helping flip the seat from blue to red for the first time in nearly 40 years. In 2020, Amarone worked as a Regional Field Director for the Trump Victory re-elect in New Hampshire, working with Republicans up and down the ballot in NH-01 to assist in efforts that would profoundly re-elect Governor Chris Sununu and lead to Republicans growing majorities in the state legislature. After deploying to Georgia for the 2021 runoff, Amarone managed George Logan's race for Congress in CT-05. A race the incumbent won by double digits in 2020 and a seat Republicans haven't held in nearly two decades, Amarone assisted Logan in securing a unanimous convention nomination and becoming one of the highest profile target races in the country, with outside groups spending nearly $15 million combined. Logan fell short by less than 1%, making it one of the top 10 closest races in the country. Amarone currently works as the Advocacy Outreach Manager for Public Policy at CBIA, Connecticut's largest and most impactful business association, representing more than 3,000 businesses at the state capitol. Amarone is a graduate of Assumption College, where he studied political science and was a four-year member of the NCAA-D2 ice hockey team and founder of the Assumption College Young Conservatives Club.

Alex Blair

Chief of Staff, Congressman Greg Steube (FL-17)

Florida

Alex has worked in government and Republican politics for roughly ten years. His career began in the private sector where he worked for a start-up digital consulting firm and developed skills that would help him manage multiple political campaigns at the state and federal levels. These successful campaigns led to opportunities working in the Florida legislature and Congress, where in 2019 he became the youngest serving Chief of Staff in the US House of Representatives under Congressman Greg Steube, a position he continues to hold today. Alex is passionate about helping conservative candidates and elected officials achieve their political and policy objectives. Whether it is getting elected to office or passing legislation, Alex enjoys leading an operation to help realize a principal's goals and advising them in navigating their surrounding political and legislative environments. A native of Sarasota, Florida, Alex is also able to provide a unique local perspective in his current role as Chief of Staff for his hometown Congressman. Alex is a three-time graduate of Florida State University, having earned undergraduate and graduate degrees in Political Science, as well as a Master of Business Administration.

Founder/CEO, Right Strategies

Iowa

Morgan Bonwell is the Founder and CEO of Right Strategies. Morgan grew up in Northeast Iowa on 40-acres with her grandparents, parents, aunts, uncles, cousins, and brother, Wyatt Earl. She learned the value of hard work from her Poppy who inspired her to start her own business after watching him build a successful company. Morgan has spent almost a decade in politics where she became an expert in grassroots voter contact via canvassing and telecommunications. After working with the Republican Party of Iowa, at the Iowa State Capitol, and for the Indiana Republican Party, she joined a voter contact firm as a Campaign Director managing voter contact plans for candidates and issue organizations across the nation. She quickly moved up into a Vice President role and was tasked with managing multi-million-dollar clients; giving strategic advice, building relationships, and helping them win their campaigns. In 2022, Morgan founded Right Strategies to help first-time conservative candidates. In 2023, Right Strategies was a Finalist for Best New Firm from Campaigns & Elections. In its first year in business, the Right Strategies team helped 50+ candidates running for school board to Congress. Since, the company has grown to a team of 4 who have serviced over 150 candidates across the nation including a presidential candidate. Bonwell resides in Altoona, Iowa with her husband Michael, children Beau and Ellie, and dogs.

Morgan Bonwell

Special Activities Planner, Defense Contractor

Florida

From 2018 to 2021 John served as a staffer on the Senate Armed Services Committee under Chairmen Jim Inhofe and Jack Reed. During his time on the Committee, John worked in support of both the Majority and Minority parties to help write and pass Congress' annual national security legislation: the National Defense Authorization Act. Since 2021, John has continued his work in the realm of national security as a defense contractor in support of U.S. Special Operations Command as a Strategy Analyst for the Coordinating Authority Directorate for Countering Weapons of Mass Destruction, and as a Special Activities Planner. John is a graduate of The Johns Hopkins University, and is published in the Johns Hopkins Sheridan Libraries. John is also published by the University of Central Oklahoma. National Security and Defense Policy remain professional priorities for John, and he intends to continue working to bolster both within and outside of conservative circles. Looking forward, John aims to foster meaningful working-relationships with Republicans and Democrats alike, among others who share his commitment to national security.

John Callaghan

John Corbett

Executive Vice President, Jamestown Associates New Hampshire

John Corbett is an Executive Vice President at Jamestown Associates where he has been building and managing campaigns, while producing winning media on races in New Hampshire and across the country. Corbett is proud to have assisted in producing media for Governor Chris Sununu's historic victories in 2020 and 2022. In 2020, John served as Campaign Manager for Matt Mowers in New Hampshire's First Congressional District. Corbett managed a budget of nearly $2 million, executing the most successful Republican congressional fundraising campaign in state history at the time. In the primary, Mowers received nearly 60% of the vote while winning every single town in the district. In addition to his work in New Hampshire, John has played pivotal roles in important races across the country, including assisting Senator Joni Ernst's reelection effort, and Senator Mike Braun's victory in Indiana. John is a native of Massachusetts and resides in New Hampshire. He graduated magna cum laude from the University of New Hampshire.

Dalton Dismukes

President, Strategy Management Alabama

Getting an early start in politics, Dalton was only in the 10th grade when he knocked on his first door for a campaign. Since then, Dalton has risen through the ranks and started his own shop based in Montgomery, Alabama. Dalton is proud to have served at nearly every level of leadership in a campaign. Since starting Strategy Management in 2016, Dalton's gone on to work for more than 100 clients, that include multiple State Republican Caucuses, State Parties, Governors, US Senators, IE and Super PACs, and many down-ballot races and initiatives. Dalton recently served as Political Director to Governor Bill Lee's re-election in Tennessee, Executive Director for the Alabama Conservatives Fund -- a Super PAC supporting now-Senator Katie Britt from Alabama, as well as serving as General Consultant to the Alabama House Republican Caucus. Though his young company has now run races in more than 22 states, at 29 years old Dalton is proud to still call Montgomery, Alabama home with his wife and two young daughters.

Michael Donatello

Policy Advisor, Wisconsin State Senate Wisconsin

Michael Donatello is a political and legislative professional, currently serving as a Policy Advisor in the Wisconsin State Senate. Michael has worked in a variety of roles for state-level campaigns throughout Wisconsin including messaging, fundraising, policy development, strategy, and management. Most recently, he served as the campaign manager for the 2022 Republican nominee for Lt. Governor, Roger Roth, where he oversaw a decisive victory in a crowded eight-way primary despite being the final campaign to enter the field. His experience with campaigns, legislative strategy, communications, and policy development has allowed him to deliver substantive political and legislative victories in the Badger State. Michael owes his lifelong interest in politics to his father for bringing him to door-knocking events and state party conventions beginning with the 2000 U.S. Presidential Election. Zach Rudat is the Director of External Affairs and Legislative Advisor to the Michigan House Republican Floor Leader, Bryan Posthumus. Zach got his start in politics working for his former State Representative Tom Leonard, who served as Speaker of the Michigan House and the 2018 Republican nominee for Michigan Attorney General. Leonard also ran for Attorney General in 2022, a campaign which Zach served as the Political Director. With over 8 years of experience working with the Michigan House Republicans, Zach is most proud of his work as a Member Services Advisor. This role allowed him to consult dozens of Representatives on their public relations strategies, advising their offices on how to best utilize the advantages of their incumbencies. This role also allowed Zach to take his work on the road during campaign season, offering his services to some of the most competitive State House campaigns across the state. A proud Michigan State University graduate, Zach and his wife Chelsea live in Fowler Michigan with their son Charlie and Goldendoodle Patsy.

Zac Rutherford

Chief of Staff, Rep. Diana Harshbarger
South Carolina & Tennessee

A native of South Carolina, Zac got his start doing advance work for Rick Santorum. As President of The Citadel College Republicans, he worked for numerous campaigns and independent expenditures during the '14 and '16 cycles. After graduating he worked on top targeted campaigns in Virginia and South Carolina. In 2020, he won a 16 way primary for Tennessee's First Congressional District and became Chief of Staff to Congresswoman Diana Harshbarger at 25 years of age, making him one of the youngest Chiefs in history. As Chief of Staff he oversees all of her official side operations including communications and their legislative shop. He also serves as her Chief political advisor.

Director of Communications, Republican Party of Kentucky / Daniel Cameron for Governor

Kentucky

Sean Southard is the Director of Communications for Daniel Cameron for Governor and the Republican Party of Kentucky (RPK). His reputation has earned him recognition as the top staffer in Kentucky state government by Kentucky Fried Politics in 2021, and a "power broker" in Kentucky politics in 2022. Joining the Republican Party in 2022, Sean managed the communications strategy which led to key victories during the 2022 cycle, including the defeat of 5 incumbent Democrat legislators, without a single loss among Republicans. Since then, he has been one of the leading Republican voices against Democrat Governor Andy Beshear, frequently defending Republican candidates and policies while holding the Governor accountable. Prior to that, Southard served nearly 5 years as Director of Communications for Kentucky's Commissioner of Agriculture and was a senior account executive at RunSwitch PR. He was part of Kentuckians for Strong Leadership, an independent expenditure effort which flipped control of the Kentucky state house to the Republicans for the first time in almost a century. A graduate of the University of Louisville, Sean studied political science and history and was part of the McConnell Scholars Program. He lives in Louisville, Kentucky.

Senior Counsel, House Judiciary Committee, Chairman Jim Jordan

New Hampshire

Lauren Stimpert serves as Senior Counsel to the House Judiciary Committee under Chairman Jim Jordan, where she leads the Subcommittee on Crime and Federal Government Surveillance and the Subcommittee on the Constitution and Limited Government. She leads on policy issues including violent crime, firearms policy, human trafficking, and pro-life policy. Lauren also dedicates herself to providing detailed and accurate briefings and analysis to Members of Congress and their staff to further the Committee's conservative agenda. Additionally, Lauren prepares the Committee for hearings with insightful research and written guidance as well as witness outreach. Throughout her career, Lauren has gained invaluable expertise from serving Committees in both the House and Senate as well as the offices of Members of Congress. Prior to joining the House Judiciary Committee, Lauren served the Senate Judiciary Committee, where she led the passage of three human trafficking and victims' rights bills being signed into law. She also worked for Senator Tim Scott, where she served as a lead policy professional during the police reform negotiations in 2021. Lauren also served as a legislative aide to Congressman William Timmons. Lauren received her B.A. in Politics from Bates College and her J.D. from American University Washington College of Law.

Lauren Stimpert

Strategist, Majority Strategies

Ohio

Originally from Grand Blanc, Michigan Josh came to Ohio started his career in the buckeye state working for then Secretary of State Jon Husted. He quickly realized his calling was the campaign side as he worked to elect the DeWine Husted ticket in 2018. Following that election, he joined the Lt. Governor's office. He left his role with State of Ohio to move up north to Michigan and become the Director of Strategic Operations at the Michigan Republican Party for 2020. He was deeply involved in the successful efforts to hold the Statehouse in a year that saw Michigan go blue. In 2021, Josh joined Majority Strategies as a State Strategist. This is the ideal role for Josh because it allows him to do what he truly loves; campaign work and getting Republicans elected. Whether it is a local race for a new member of the school board or a federally significant race such as Congress, Josh believes in using resources wisely and creating an effective message in electing conservatives. Joshua is married to his wife Danielle and they have 3 young children. In his free time he is active in his parish and kids' school and also serves as the Greater Dayton YR chapter president.

Joshua Tovey

Kevin Waisfeld

Data Director, Texans for Greg Abbott
Texas

Kevin Waisfeld was raised in Florida and became interested in politics early. At 14, he volunteered for his first campaign and ever since, elections have been his passion. After graduating from the University of West Florida, Kevin moved to Texas where he began working on campaigns full-time. He was hired by Governor Greg Abbott's campaign in 2017 and has served as the Data Director since 2019. Thanks to a significant investment in data & analytics made by the Governor's team, Kevin oversees a data department that rivals those of presidential campaigns. During the most recent election cycle, Kevin helped craft and execute an ambitious plan that aimed to increase the Governor's support with traditional Republican voters in rural East and West Texas while also making a historic investment with Hispanic voters in South Texas. Even as Democrats themselves invested well over $300 million to try and flip Texas, the results were resounding. Governor Abbott finished with the best performance a Republican candidate has ever had in both rural Texas and South Texas, while also increasing the Republican majorities in the State Legislature. Kevin lives in Austin and enjoys snowboarding, hiking, fishing, and trips to the beach. He's currently working on his Master's degree in Data Science and looks forward to helping keep Texas the greatest state in America.

Rob Yosaitis

National Field Director, RNC
Virginia

Rob Yosaitis is an experienced campaign operative from Northern Virginia who's already worked in eight states – managing campaigns from the State House to Congress, working on statewide, and serving with the RNC. Rob got hooked on politics in 2014 after his freshman year at Colgate volunteering for Barbara Comstock's 2014 congressional campaign. He interned for several campaigns while still in college and, after graduating in 2017, moved back to Virginia to assist Ed Gillespie's campaign for governor while also managing a winning House of Delegates race. Over the next three years Rob moved to Maine, Pennsylvania, back to Virginia, Oregon, and ended up in Wisconsin managing now-Congressman Derrick Van Orden's 2020 campaign. Following that close defeat, Rob joined the RNC as the Michigan State Director for the 2022 cycle and today is building on that work as the RNC's National Field Director. In his free time, you can find Rob cheering on one of the DC sports teams, Michigan football, or out on the golf course.

Robert L. Morgan III

Region Director, Republican Assembly Campaign
Committee NYC and 1st Vice Chair, Manhattan Republican Party
New York

Robert L. Morgan III serves as the Regional Director of the NYS Republican Assembly Campaign Committee in New York City. Under Robert's leadership, the size of the NYS Assembly Republican delegation from NYC has tripled from two members to six members. Robert also serves as the 1st Vice Chair of the Manhattan Republican Party under Chairwoman Andrea Catsimatidis. Robert has been a New York State political operative since the tender age of 19 and specializes in ballot access, fundraising, media operations, and campaign advertising. Robert has been quoted in the New York Post, New York Times, Politico, and other other media outlets. In his spare time, Robert enjoys cheering on the New York Jets and watching the occasional horse race at Belmont Park and Saratoga racetrack.

NRCC Polling Director, National Republican Congressional Committee New York

Daniel Luongo is the Polling Director at the National Republican Congressional Committee (NRCC). Daniel got his start in politics working on Barbara Comstock's (VA-10) successful re-election campaign while attending George Mason University. During college he also interned at the Republican National Committee and for Senators John McCain (R-AZ) and Thom Tillis (R-NC). Prior to joining the NRCC, Daniel worked at Public Opinion Strategies (POS) for both the 2018 and 2020 election cycles. At POS he oversaw writing and fielding surveys. In 2020 he managed polling in over 25 Congressional Districts, 30 state legislative districts, and executed over 60 national and statewide surveys. During the 2022 cycle he moved over to the NRCC, working in the Data Department helping with voter targeting and outreach. As the NRCC Polling Director, Daniel is excited to use data and messaging to help grow the majority in 2024. Originally from Buffalo, New York Daniel is a passionate member of the Bills Mafia and in his free time, he likes running, reading, and trying new types of Prosecco.
